

Consultant Occupational Hygienist

Home based with UK travel

£Competitive + benefits

We are working with a leading Environmental Consultancy who require an experienced Occupational Hygienist to join their team and take on responsibility for carrying out pioneering assessment work, implementing innovative approaches to help our clients to improve their health risk management performance as well as a number of other tasks such as; providing staff training, preparing proposals for clients and dealing with noise and vibration surveys, as well as others as required.

To be considered you will hold a full UK driving licence (as travel will be required), have a science based background and a certificate of operational competence in occupational hygiene or be working towards this qualification.

For full details, email your CV to rebecca@candovergreen.com quoting job ref: RB2312

Candover
Green